

SALES ANALYSIS

CONTENT

- * INTRODUCTION
- * REVENUE ANALYSIS
- * PRODUCT ANALYSIS
- * QUESTIONS

INTRODUCTION

Objective:

- Provide insight on revenue of the company and performance the products.

Analysis:

- Time of day the store performs best
- Which products generate the most revenue
- Sales trends across products and seasons

REVENUE ANALYSIS

Total Revenue By Location

Analysis

In the past 6 months [ January- June ] Bright Coffee made a total Revenue of R 698 812.00. Of which Astoria contributed 33%, Lower Manhattan contributed 32% and Hell's Kitchen contributed 34%

REVENUE ANALYSIS

Analysis

Revenue increase and decrease is seasonal. High volume of sales in winter, and a low volume of sales in spring.

REVENUE ANALYSIS

Monthly Revenue By Store

Weekly Revenue By Store

Analysis

- High volume of sales are experienced in May and June and weekly on Mondays and Fridays.
- Low volume of sales on Weekends and in the evening

REVENUE ANALYSIS

Revenue by Weekdays

Revenue by Hour

Analysis

- High volume of sales on Mondays, Fridays and in the mornings
- Low volume of sales on Weekends and in the evening

Recommendations

- Combo promotions on low selling products to boost sales during off-peak-time and days to increase sales volume.

PRODUCT ANALYSIS

- Analysis

- Best selling products; Coffee and Tea
- Lowest selling products packaged chocolate, Flavours, Loose Tea, Branded, Coffee Beans and Drinking Chocolate.
- Best sales are in winter and low sales are in spring

- Recommendation

- Introduce cold beverages in hot seasons, i.e. iced coffee, iced caramel latte, ice tea etc
- Determine root cause of the low sale volume products.
- Research on low selling products, based on the results promote the products i.e taste samples for low selling product alternatively substitute the product with new products.

QUESTIONS

THANK YOU

...